

Firestack, Winter

Aird Bheag, Outer Hebrides 2017

Julie Brook

NATURE UNWRAPPED

Firestacks: Tide, Time and Gravity

Julie Brook and Robert Macfarlane

Spoken Word

Artist Julie Brook journeys to the wildest and most remote landscapes on earth, creating work that is not only inspired by the land but cut from it. For the Firestacks, her most recent series, created in the Hebrides, Brook assembles natural elements—water, stone and fire—to create a tidal work that expresses the vital tension between gravity and time, through the seasons.

Writer Robert Macfarlane's engagement with wilderness is similarly immersive, conjuring landscapes, seas and underground spaces with a poet's eye and a scholar's tongue.

As Brook debuts her work in Pangolin's new exhibition for Nature Unwrapped on the gallery level at Kings Place, she discusses with Macfarlane the elemental forces at play in her work and previews her films.

January 29th 2019 7pm

Hall 2, King's Place, 90 York Way, London N1 9AG

Tickets: £16.50 plus £9.50 savers

Book here.